OUR NAME.

We adopted, with reluctance, the title University. We would have preferred, for years to come, the name of Waco Academy. And we wish it distinctly understood that we use the term University, not in the general, but in the Texian acceptation: that is, an Academy, or High School, which its friends hope will become a University.

While we challenge comparison with any school in Texas, we only have what Thomas Jefferson called, "A University in ovo."

However, we assure the people of Texas, that this Institution is conducted by a Faculty of great experience, and ardent devotion to the cause of education in Texas.

We will also remind them of a well known fact, that Colleges, like States, usually produce their greatest intellects, while young, and while struggling "for a name and a place."

We would also remind them that a young man educated in his own State, enters life with peculiar opportunities for success and happiness; for wherever he goes, he carries with him the support and affection of scores of educated young men.

Finally, we remind them that the only way to make Texas great, intellectually, morally, and politically, is to build up our own Institutions.

G

HEALTH.

A good many fears have been expressed, in regard to the health of Waco, by those partially acquainted with the facts.

The fact that, in five years, with a number of students equal to any Institution in the State, we have lost but one student by death, fully justifies us in assuring our friends that Waco is a safe place to educate their sons and daughters.

BOARDING FACILITIES.

During the war, when our city was crowded with refugees from different States, we found great difficulties in securing suitable boarding-houses for our students; but we have no fears that this difficulty will again occur. We think we can provide for one hundred boarders, by the first Monday in September, 1866.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

The Faculty will constantly aim to imbue the minds and hearts of the students with a deep sense of honor and moral excellence. As the Bible is the only foundation of morals and religion, its teachings will be often and solemnly enforced.

Although the University is a Baptist Institution, and belongs to the Baptist Denomination, nothing sectarian will be taught in the daily recitations. Especial attention will be given to Sabbath School instruction and Bible classes; and every student is required to attend public worship, at such place as his parent or guardian may designate.

THE BUILDINGS

Are two well-constructed and neatly finished brick buildings. Each two stories high, and 60 feet long by 36 wide. They are placed sixty feet apart, and are the wings of the main building, which is to be 60 by 115 feet, and three stories high.

THE APPARATUS.

The University has a full and complete apparatus for surveying, civil engineering, &c.; and steps will be taken, at an early day, to secure a complete Philosophical and Chemical Apparatus.

THE LIBRARY

Is small, but well selected. The Trustees were fortunate enough to secure the Library of that eminent scholar, Rev. J. B. Stiteler, as a part of the University Library.

LOCATION.

The city of Waco is said to be within fifteen miles of the geographical centre of Texas. It is accessible by four tri-weekly lines of stages. The hospitality, intelligence and enterprize of the citizens of Waco, are widely known. The fact that the citizens of Waco and vicinity, entirely within themselves, during the first year of the war, furnished the University with buildings, library, &c., equal to any Institution within the State, fully demonstrates that their reputation is well founded.

THEOLOGICAL INSTRUCTION.

To all young men preparing for the ministry, the President gives, in a separate class, a short, practical course of instruction, in Homiletics, Ecclesiastical History, Biblical Interpretation and Pastoral Theology.

The following young men have availed them of this provision, during the past session: J. M. McCraw, A. G. G. Perkins, L. R. Scruggs, T. J. Sparkman.

We have assurances that this number will be increased considerably next session.

Yet all young men who have finished their literary course, and whose ages and circumstances will possibly admit, are urged to go on and pursue a full course of Theology, in our Southern Theological Seminary, at Greenville, South Carolina.

LAWS OF WACO UNIVERSITY.

PREAMBLE.

To ascertain and define the relative rights, privileges and duties of the Board of Trustees, the Faculty and the Students, and to insure due respect, obedience, order and the harmony of the whole, the President and Board of Trustees do enact and publish the following Laws for the government of Waco University.

OF GOVERNMENT.

1. The government of the University will be of a parental character, and must partake of the nature of moral suasion, so far as circumstances will admit.

2. The treatment of the students will be mild, but firm and decided, endeavoring always first to secure attention to study, a correct deportment and a taste for intellectual pursuits and virtuous habits, by appealing to the better impulses of the human heart.

OF THE TRUSTEES.

1. The Trustees have the right to elect Professors, determine their salaries, and, if necessary, to remove them from office. They have the right to enact Laws for the University—to prescribe the course of study—to conduct the financial affairs of the Institution and to exercise a general supervisory care over and control of the same. Within the limits prescribed in the Acts of Incorporation, the Trustees, in the exercise of their powers, are independent and supreme.

2. The Trustees, or any of them, have the privilege at any time to visit the University and witness the conduct and operations of the same, and to freely interchange views privately with the Faculty upon matters connected with our educational interest.

3. It is the duty of the Trustees, as well in their individual as their official capacity, to encourage, sustain and support the Faculty generally in the discharge of their duties, but more especially in the administration of discipline.

4. There must be a unity of purpose between the Trustees and the Faculty, and if any Trustee shall by any act encourage disobedience in a pupil, or by any act incite a pupil to insubordination, he shall be deemed unworthy of the trust committed to him, and be subject to expulsion from the Board.

OF THE FACULTY AND STUDENTS.

1. The President is the organ of the Faculty, and is directly amenable to the Trustees for the government and general conduct of the University. In his absence the Vice President of the Faculty shall act as President.

2. The Faculty, under such regulations as may be agreed on among themselves, not inconsistent with the laws of the University, are supreme in the government and control of the school, and they are not to be interfered with by any one. Their authority in this matter is circumscribed only by the published laws of the University.

3. It is the privilege of the Faculty to be present on any meeting of the Board or of the Executive Committee, (except a private session be desired,) and to freely commune and interchange views with the Trustees; but their action in such case is merely advisory.

4. It is the duty of the President to preside at all meetings of the Faculty. He shall be entitled to one vote as a Professor and also to a casting vote when the votes of the Faculty are equally divided. He shall communicate to the Faculty and the Board of Trustees all matters relating to the welfare of the Institution, which may, in his opinion, require their attention.

8. The President, aided by the Faculty, is charged with the execution of the laws of the University relating to instruction and discipline. He, or such officer as he may appoint in his absence, shall conduct religious services morning and evening in the Chapel. He shall make an annual report in writing to the Board of Trustees of the condition of every department.

6. He shall see that a regular and separate account is kept of every student's standing and character, and by the aid of the Faculty shall promptly suspend, or otherwise punish every student whose standing, either moral or literary, is such as to require it according to law. He shall also see that a monthly report of the standing of every student is sent to his parent or guardian.

7. The President shall also be a Professor, entitled to a salary and responsible for the duties of that office.

8. Every Professor shall devote himself earnestly to the duties of his department, with which no other duty must interfere.

9. It shall be his duty not only to communicate a given amount of knowledge to his classes, but to incite in them an ardent love of learning and virtue, and inspire them with lofty aspirations for mental and moral excellence.

10. Each Professoa is charged with the supervision of his own class, and he will consider himself as much an officer of discipline as of instruction.

11. He will take notice of every instance of absence or violation of the laws, whether in his own class or elsewhere, and take measures at once to correct it; if his own efforts be unsuccessful, or the offence be repeated, he shall report it to the proper authority.

12. It shall be the duty of the Professors to report the President to the Board of Trustees, if he neglect to enforce the laws of the University.

13. Each recitation shall continue one hour, unless otherwise ordered by the Faculty, a portion of which time shall be occupied in reviewing the recitation of the preceding day.

14. Immediately after the daily recitation of each student, the Professor shall affix a numerical mark to his name, designating the value of his recitation. For a perfect recitation the number shall be 5; for an imperfect one a smaller number, and for a deficiency 0.

15. If the deficiency has been satisfactorily explained before the commencement of the recitation—that is, if it has arisen from circumstances over which the student had no control, no other mark shall be added. If the explanation be unsatisfactory, or if no explanation be offered, it shall incur an additional demerit mark of from two to five. Disturbances in the chapel, or lecture room, or in any part of the College premises, shall incur a demerit of from two to five.

16. Absence at the time of calling the roll, unless previous permission be granted, or unless the reason why that permission could not be requested, be rendered previously to 12 o'clock, M. of the subsequent day, shall incur a demerit of from two to five.

17. Absence from rooms after dark and before 9 o'clock, P. M., a demerit of five; if after 9 o'clock P. M., a demerit of ten. These will all be entered on the report of each Professor. No allowance is ever to be made for repeated negligence or habitual indolence.

18. When the demerits of a student for any term amount to twenty, it shall be the duty of the President to inform his parent or guardian of the fact, and when his demerits amount to fifty, to dismiss him from the University, or otherwise punish him, and to inform his parent or guardian of the fact.

19. On Monday of every week each officer shall make to the President a report of the standing of every student for the week preceding.

20. The Faculty shall meet weekly at such hour as they may appoint. They shall choose a Secretary, who shall keep a permanent record of all their doings; any portion of which may be made public, on the recommendation of the Executive Committee.

21. Each Professor shall hold himself responsible for the condition of his recitation rooms, and for the preservation and good order of the apparatus and instruments committed to his charge.

22. The Professors are elected for life or during good behavior; but the Board of Trustees have the right to dismiss any officer, whenever, in their judgment, he shall be morally unfit, or has failed faithfully to discharge his duties; and to appoint any person or persons of good moral character and ascertained competency to teach in the University, in any department of science or learning, on such conditions as they may approve, and as may be satisfactory to the President of the Faculty.

23. No Professor shall be dismissed without an opportunity of a hearing and regular trial before the Board.

24. No Professor shall resign without permission of the Board of Trustees, except at the end of a term, and after having given two months' previous notice of his intention to do so.

25. The Faculty are responsible to the Board of Trustees for any abuse, misuse, or avoidable damage of the furniture, or other property of the University.

REQUISITIONS FOR ADMISSION.

1. No student shall be admitted, unless he presents to the President suitable testimonials of good moral character; and if he comes from another College, he must also present a certificate of regular dismission, and of good standing in the institution he has left.

The earliest age at which it would be advantageous for a student to enter the collegiate classes, is at the completion of his fifteenth year; but the President is authorized to matriculate a student at an earlier age, provided sufficient and peculiar reasons exist, and his parent or guardian places him under such moral supervision as may be satisfactory to himself.

3. The form of matriculation is as follows: A student who wishes to enter upon the collegiate course, either regular or partial, must first present his testimonials to the President, who, if satisfied with his evidences of good character, will admit him as a candidate for examination, and direct him to the officers by whom he is to be examined for admission. If the examination be satisfactory, the stuednt shall procure and read a copy of the Laws of the University; after which he shall call again on the President and sign a declaratien of his deliberate intention to obey all the laws of the University, so long as he shall remain a member of it.

5. As soon as a student is matriculated, the President shall furnish his parent, (or guardian, if he be a minor,) a copy of the Laws of the University.

REGULAR COURSE OF STUDY.

1. The following courses of instruction shall be given in the University. To them, however, others may be added, from time to time, according to the pleasure of the Trustees and Faculty:

1. A course of instruction in the Latin Language and Literature.
2. A course of instruction in the Greek Language and Literature.
3. A course of instruction in Mathematics.

1. Those who wish to pursue a partial course of study, can do so, by a request from their parent or guardian; if of suitable age, by their own request; but they will be required to recite with the regular classes in those studies which are similar. They will have the privilege of regular students, and access to the Library and Lectures.

1. A student completing the Regular Course of Study, shall be entitled to the DEGREE of A. B.
2. A student completing the Scientific Course of Study, shall be entitled to the DEGREE of B. Ph.

EXAMINATIONS.
